Oba of Benin seeks religious tolerance, peaceful co-existence

By Henry Moses

Oba of Benin, Oba Ewuare II

Oba of Benin, Oba Ewuare II, has called on Nigerians to be tolerant of one another's religious beliefs and ensure peaceful co-existence.

Ewuare made the call when the Chief Imam of Benin Central Mosque, Alhaji Abdufatah Enabulele, led other Muslims faithful to the palace on Sunday.

He said that there should not be any form of discrimination against any religious belief, stating this order to prevent breakdown of law and order in the society," he said. The royal father advised the Muslim community in Benin not to relent in their prayers for President Muhammadu Buhari and other governmental functionaries across the country.

Speaking earlier, Enabulele thanked Allah for granting Muslim faithful the grace to witness this year's Eid-el Kabir festival. The News Agency of Nigeria (NAN) reports that the chief imam, along with other imams, Islamic scholars and faithful, prayed for Ewuare, his households and the people of Benin.

He decried the security challenges currently confronting the country, calling for urgent action to stem the tide. "In this era of security challenges, everybody must be vigilant in disagreements and violence. This, the traditional ruler said, had become imperative in order to ensure peaceful coexistence, harmony and good neighborliness amongst the people. Ewuare urged the Muslim community to always give security reports to his palace to prevent any security breach and arrest untoward occurrences.

Attack On Buhari's Convoy, Kuje Prison, National Embarrassment – Ortom, AAC

Agency Report

Benue State Governor, Samuel Ortom

Benue State governor, Samuel Ortom, has described last week's attack on the convoy of President Muhammadu Buhari and the Kuje Correctional Centre situated in the Federal Capital Territory (FCT), Abuja, as a national embarrassment.

He further stated that the two attacks vindicated him on his recent statement that Abuja, the seat of power as well as the Presidential Villa, risked being attacked by terrorists, in view of rising insecurity in the country.

Ortom disclosed this in a goodwill message to Nigerians to commemorate this year's Eid el-Kabir celebration, signed by his Chief Press Secretary (CPS), Nathaniel Ikyur, and issued to newsmen in Makurdi on Saturday. He used the occasion to call on Muslims to pray against the rising insecurity in the country, adding that all hope was not lost, if the Federal Government rises to the challenges. Ortom further noted that it would be an understatement to say that the nation was overwhelmed by the security challenges, even as he described the recent attacks as "a national embarrassment."

The governor also lamented that his ceaseless calls on the federal government to rise up to its responsibility by providing security for the citizens over the years have continually fallen on deaf ears. According to Ortom, "The successful invasion of the Kuje Prison, right in the heart of the nation's capital, Abuja, by terrorists during which scores of inmates escaped unarguably vindicates my clarification calls on the Federal Government to wake up to its responsibilities and address the security threats gradually tearing the nation apart."

Cocoa Farmers Applaud Distribution Of Free Seedlings In Cross River

By Emma Ojile

Cocoa farmers in Cross River State have applauded the free distribution of one hundred thousand improved variety seedlings to encourage young people to embrace farming.

The farmers, who were at the flag-off ceremony held in Calabar, the capital of Cross River State, south-south Nigeria for the distribution of the seedlings, said that receiving free seedlings from the nursery would enable them utilize their funds to purchase other inputs.

The cocoa seedlings were grown in the Cross River State Government owned nursery in Calabar to encourage new and young farmers from the southern senatorial district to establish farms across the seven local government areas.

One of the farmers present at the event, Mr. Aspanke William said "it is a privilege for me to be part of this. We never expected that we will get cocoa seedlings free like this in Cross River. The governor, Professor Ben Ayade has created an opportunity for people like us to grow in farming."

Another farmer, Mr. Maxwell Ebam said, "I have a farm in the central district, but I am one of those trying to propagate the growing of cocoa in the south. Today I am enlightened on the fertile nature of the soil in the south. The ground is ready for cocoa production. For those of us from Ikom, Etung and Boki in the central, cocoa is the main stay of our economy. Young people here in the south should see cocoa as a wealth creator. Everything we have in Ikom is from the proceeds of cocoa and with cocoa here it is enough to put us into greater economic height," he stated.

A representative of the Cross River State deputy Governor, the Commissioner for Finance, Mr. Asucuo Ekpenyong spoke of the importance of cocoa as a cash crop with the propensity to transform economies of young farmers.

Group To Deploy Climate-Smart Agriculture To Fight Poverty

Governor Samuel Ortom of Benue State

Governor Samuel Ortom of Benue State has flagged off the 2022 cropping season with the distribution of improved seeds to rural farmers in the 23 local government areas of the state.

Ortom, during the ceremony at the premises of the Bureau of Local Government and Chieftaincy Affairs (BLGCA) in Makurdi, at the weekend, directed the council chairmen to ensure that the improved seeds are given to genuine farmers for onward cultivation in this year's farming season. The seeds for distribution include 6,900 bags of rice, 833 bags of maize, 1,000 tins of watermelon seeds, 233 bags of sorghum and 11,000 bundles of cassava stems.

The governor commended the Bureau's Special Adviser, Barrister Kenneth Achabo, for initiating and sustaining the agricultural programme, noting that he was impressed with the results achieved in two years.

He emphasized the need for the people of the state to key into the programme, maintaining that it has added economic value towards boosting the agriculture sub-sector for food security.

Ortom further explained that with two private investors in Makurdi and Ikom as off-takers in cassava processing as its major raw material, the product was already in short supply calling on the people to engage in profitable agriculture.

He also directed Achabo to liaise with the agriculture departments of local governments to organize a seminar for farmers on best modes of cultivation of the improved seeds to produce the needed result.

Earlier, Achabo had lauded Governor Ortom for the premium he has placed on agriculture and his exploits in transforming the rural sector just as he appealed to the local government chairmen to ensure that the seeds are put to proper use.
